LAKE OKEECHOBEE

Lake Okeechobee lies geographically in the center of the state of Florida. The name "Okeechobee" was given to the lake by the Seminole Indians, and it means "big water." Lake Okeechobee is the largest freshwater lake in the United States occurring in one state. It is approximately 37 miles long and 30 miles wide, with an average depth of almost 10 feet. The lake produces more bass over 8 pounds than any lake in the United States. It is famous for bass, crappie, and bluegill fishing. Several species of wildlife also thrive around the lake, such as the bald eagle, blue heron, egret, white ibis, sand hill crane, turkey, vulture, owl, alligator, bobcat, turkey, and panther.
